

Monday Windstorm Does Great Damage

FALLEN TREES, WRECKED BUILDINGS FOLLOW STORM'S PATH

The cold wave and storm of Monday forenoon was followed in mid-afternoon by wind gale that started trouble that wrecked trees, buildings and interrupted power lines all over Crawford county.

The heavy winds started at about 3:00 p. m. and didn't let up until the following morning. Down-town signs were torn from their fastenings, trees leaned over until some upturned from the roots, some of the latter falling across power lines, barns were wrecked and twisted and in one instance a roof was blown completely off its structure.

Grayling electric lines were damaged at 5:32 p. m. near the James McDunnell home north of town, putting the city out of electric service for 40 minutes. Later in the night a huge poplar tree in front of the Mrs. Herb Guthrie home fell across the power lines further complicating the service. These had to be cleared away before electric service could be resumed.

In all sections of the city trees were down, some of which narrowly missed doing serious damage to homes, garages and other out-buildings.

All along the highways leading out of the city scores of trees lay uprooted. Several beautiful pine trees near the Ralph Cohen home at Lake Margrethe suffered serious damage to the roof of the Dr. VanVleet store at Lake Margrethe was completely blown off and lay flat on the ground. There were trees down, trees down and trees down wherever one might look. At the Hartwick Pines park, all along one edge trees were laid flat, and others leaning far over and will have to be removed. The damage within the Pines park area was considerable. Nearly 500 trees are reported down.

In the city the Mrs. Hartley Grocery store was slightly damaged when the wind ripped off the false top and old slight damage to the roof. One of the large plate glass windows at the Burke garage was blown in, as was also one at the Charles Moshier service station.

The barn at the former Cobb farm in Maple Forest was flattened, and also the barn of James F. Knibbs in Maple Forest was badly twisted and ruined.

At the National Guard camp several trees are down and also a few small out buildings belonging to the camp. At Grayling city tourist park there are between 15 and 20 trees down. One large tree fell across one edge of the roof and front porch of the Wilbur Sterling home on Norway street doing some damage.

At a summer home on the AuSable while the family happened to be in ready for the opening of the deer hunting season the chimney of the fireplace was completely blown down. Occupants along the river in many instances found their roadways blocked by fallen timbers that had to be removed before they could either get in or out.

The Michigan Public Service

Co. lines too were disrupted and the communities between here and Cheboygan were without service for some time. We understand that at Gaylord the service was off until noon of the following day. Frederic was in complete darkness and without electric service for a couple of days.

Service was supplied to the local customers of the Michigan Public Service Co. from the hydraulic plant west of Grayling and thus escaped the inconvenience of interruption during the storm period. However had Grayling's large number of users of the local municipal plant service been dependent upon the former Company we would have had to suffer the fate of Frederic, Gaylord and other communities along the line. The M. P. S. local hydraulic plant wouldn't have been able to supply the city with power service.

Severe wind and sleet storms are rare here in Grayling, but this present attack proves that it can happen here.

New Grayling Winter Sports Folder Out

CONTAINS 16 ATTRACTIVE LOCAL PARK SCENES

The Avalanche has just made first deliveries of 10,000 Grayling Winter Sports folders, to the Grayling Winter Sports, Inc.

These are printed on high gloss 60-pound white enamel paper, and are printed in Cameo green, double-tone printing ink. The pictures throughout the folders are taken from actual photographs taken at Grayling's famous winter park.

On the front page is a picture of a huge snowman as it "stands guard at the Park entrance." This snowman was made by members of Hartwick Pines CCC camp and was over 25 feet in height. Another page shows the "world's largest snowman," over 30 feet in height, that attracted visitors from as far away as Florida, and from other parts of the country. This was made by John Deckrow. The spectacular arrival of snow-trains from Detroit, Flint, Lansing, Jackson, Saginaw and Bay City is shown in a couple of pictures, and huge crowds as they boarded the trucks bound for the winter park.

Governor Luren Dickinson is shown holding the hand of Miss Norberta Weiss, Grayling Winter Queen of 1940, as the photographer snapped them in the Governor's office in Lansing. "Birdie" Tebbetts, of the Detroit Tigers, Grayling's good-will emissary, is shown looking on.

There are snow scenes and park scenes, all attractively pictured, that makes this the finest winter sports folder that has ever been published. Everyone will want one, and everyone is welcome to have as many as they may desire for his own convenience and for sending to interested friends. Just write Grayling Winter Sports, Inc., Grayling, and a folder will be mailed to you.

Deer Hunters Ready For Open Season

CONSERVATION OFFICERS REPORT DEER IN GOOD CONDITION.

Lansing, Nov. 14—Deer hunters preparing for the opening tomorrow morning of Michigan's 15-day gun season can expect as good success as they enjoyed in 1939, when they secured 45,148 bucks.

Cheering assurance to this effect is contained in reports of conservation officers stationed in both Michigan peninsulas. Deer, except in scattered localities, are said to be in excellent condition. Some officers report seeing more bucks. Bear are more numerous.

Upper peninsula officers cite a comparatively open winter, good yarding conditions and absence of predators as factors which have contributed to an apparent increase in the deer herds. Below the straits, as in Presque Isle, Montmorency and Alpena counties, starvation occurred last winter, but officers report that "any part of these three counties will furnish good deer hunting."

Deer are reported plentiful in Oscoda, Alcona, Ogemaw and Isosco counties, but the condition of the herds in northeast Oscoda and northwest Alcona counties is said to be under par.

"Deer are evidently more plentiful (in the Grand Traverse region) than in other years," according to a district officer, who adds that more buck deer have been seen than was the case last year, "even in areas not noted as good."

Greater percentage of bucks and increased numbers of deer are reported in counties north and northeast of Muskegon and an "ample supply" of bucks is the estimate of officers in Clare, Isabella, Gladwin, Midland, Arenac and Bay counties.

Southern peninsula officers also cite comparatively mild weather conditions of a year ago as responsible for the apparent increase.

No conservation officers, however, claim that deer are as plentiful as they were a few seasons ago. Exhaustion of browse in many swamps is operating to reduce the size of herds.

More than 170,000 hunters were in Michigan deer country last season.

Sales of other tax reverted lands, which former owners did not ask be resold, will not be offered at public auction for several months.

About Lands to Be Offered For Sale

Lists of lands to be offered for sale by the department of conservation and other details of the sales will be available at the county treasurer's offices and at local district headquarters of the conservation department in the two weeks preceding each sale.

Sales of other tax reverted lands, which former owners did not ask be resold, will not be offered at public auction for several months.

Red Cross Giving War Relief

Statistics show that up to Oct. 15 the American Red Cross made available $5,073,954 in relief to the war victims in Great Britain. More than 300 various items of relief, everything required to keep body and soul together, have been sent.

As increasing numbers of families are homeless and London's millions face the prospect of winter nights in air shelters, requests for new types of relief have come urgently to the American Red Cross.

Here in the United States the work of the American Red Cross will continue as ever to give relief in case of emergency.

More than ever before our dollars are needed to give assistance to those less fortunate than ourselves. The following are working for the Red Cross Roll Call in this county:

Workers for Red Cross roll call district No. 1—Mrs. Charles Moore, Mrs. C. G. Clippert.

Legion Auxiliary Fetes State Officers

With visitors present from the American Legion Auxiliaries of Rosecon, Mio, Prudenville and Kalkaska, Grayling Unit entertained four state officers Wednesday of last week. The honor guests included the department president, Mrs. Dorothy Pearl, department secretary Mrs. Bertha Proestel, both of Detroit; Mrs. Carol Lemon of Battle Creek, department rehabilitation chairman and Mrs. Lee of Flint, Americanism chairman.

Luncheon was served at the Grayling Restaurant, where the ladies were seated at one long table. The national colors predominated in the table color scheme and it was very attractive. There was a nice attendance at the banquet and more at the meeting that followed at the Legion hall. At the luncheon Mrs. Pearl and Mrs. Proestel were presented with corsages from the local unit.

The department officers were in Grayling for the purpose of a school of instruction and the various auxiliaries who gathered in here found the meeting both interesting and enjoyable.

Kiwanis Club Notes

With no special program provided for Wednesday's meeting, the time was spent in round-table discussion. Rev. Kuhlman offered a number of quiz questions, all of which someone about the table was able to answer. They were very interesting.

City Manager Geo. Granger was asked to explain the cause of the electric service interruption that occurred Monday afternoon and evening. He reported that the first damage occurred while he was at the office of Kerry & Hanson Flooring Co. when their flagpole fell across the service lines. This was followed by the one near the James McDunnell home when a tree fell across the power lines, etc., as is explained in another article appearing on the front page.

The matter of holding their meetings on Wednesday nights during the hunting season to accommodate visiting Kiwanian hunters, was dropped since no notice had been announced for the convenience of any who might wish to visit the Grayling club.

George Granger and Dr. Miller have agreed to form club bowling teams and will start practicing soon.

The board of directors appointed Norman Butler to succeed himself as secretary of the club for the coming year.

Vivid Pictures of Preparation for War Coming.

Paramount has produced a five-reel subject titled "World In Arms" which is a most extraordinary picture. It is a picture of the preparation for war.

The picture is a powerful statement against the horrors of war and the incident of European dictators who have plunged a large portion of the globe into battle. Foreward of this film, which is a most extraordinary picture, which is a most extraordinary picture, which is a most extraordinary picture.

"World In Arms" when it says "America, a land of peace." It is a picture of the preparation for war. It is a picture of the preparation for war. It is a picture of the preparation for war.

Dating back to the bull market days of 1929, but with flashes going back to the days of the first World War, this film is largely made up of news reel shots that at the time of their photographing were deemed much too hot for general release.

The first couple of reels are devoted to events leading up to the present crisis. Mass line is depicted teaching the Italian youth to bear arms, followed by sequences of the American depression which culminated in the crash of '29. Each year down to the present day is highlighted with the increasing power of Hitler and Mussolini's portrayed.

The subjugation of the smaller nations of Europe is shown and the awe-inspiring camera shots of the European and Japanese-Chinese warfare that have ever been unrecalled.

Events with which the world has long since been familiar are shown in all their horror, divested of any attempt at censorship and plainly depicting the brutality of the dictators Hitler and Mussolini in striving to attempt their goal, air bombardment, naval battles, fifth column activities, the plight of refugees, and finally the great battle of Britain, now under way are shown in all their gruesomeness.

And then for a fadeout, the inspiring word that America finally awakened, as fast preparing to become the strong power in the world, a warning that neither Hitler, Mussolini or any other foreign dictator can or probably will overlook.

This amazing picture will be shown at the Rialto Theatre, Grayling, on Tuesday and Wednesday.

The couple will reside in Grayling and have the congratulations and best wishes of many friends.

Red Cross Friend to Doughboy In Peace as Well as War-Time

More than 41,000 men in active service had personal problems solved by Red Cross field directors last year. Scene shows field director in office and enlisted man seeking advice.

BECAUSE the efficiency of America's military forces often depends upon quick solution of the enlisted man's personal and home problems, trained Red Cross workers are stationed at military posts to give sympathetic counsel and aid. Through cooperation with Red Cross Chapters in the men's home towns, speedy and lasting solution of knotty social and economic difficulties were effected last year in 41,125 cases.

Typical conditions which undermine the enlisted man's efficiency include sickness at home, family problems, and inability to finance hospitalization of loved ones.

To fulfill its charter obligations the American Red Cross also gives vital aid to disabled veterans and their families. Workers in 3,479 Red Cross chapters last year dealt with 150,606 deserving cases. Temporary relief was given needy ex-service men and their families, and they were helped in preparing and presenting compensation and other claims for government benefits. In hospitals and regional offices of the Veterans Administration representatives of the Red Cross assisted 54,792 ex-serviced men and their families.

This Red Cross service is founded on the doctrine that anxiety, fear and other upsets break down the able-bodied and delay recovery of the sick.

Red Cross War Service is a peacetime as well as war-time function. Recent legislation augmenting the armed forces of the United States has led to a planned increase in the Red Cross program of help to service men.

Famous Artist's Recipe for a Christmas Kiss
—The recipe for a Christmas Kiss is Gruen.

How an artist has to scheme and plan to get the proper 'atmosphere' was demonstrated when the Gruen Watch Company commissioned noted artist Hayden Haydon to paint a Christmas poster—in summery September. Models Ruth Ownbey and Jack Lord were total strangers. Furthermore, Miss Ownbey had never before posed in a kissing role. But the resourceful Haydon soon got his models "in the mood" by getting them two watches for them to present to each other as gifts. The romantic results are shown in the picture above.

Frederic Holding Hunters Roundup

Crawford county, in the heart of the deer lands of Michigan, will attract many deer hunters to the swingout of the "Hunters' Roundup", Nov. 22 at Frederic.

Frederic, eight miles north of Grayling, will be host at the big party featuring "Tim Doolittle and His Pine Center Gang," heard every morning over radio station W.J.R., of Detroit. One of the letters received at the Frederic school by Supt. Lee stated that Tim and the Gang had many friends in Frederic and Grayling, and that they are looking forward to the 22nd with much interest. Joe, Tim and Art of the Gang, are planning to get here early Friday morning for some real hunting, and they also plan on going out again Saturday morning, before returning to the city.

The Gang are on the air at 6:30 and 7:30 every morning, except Saturday and Sunday. For the past two weeks they have been telling everyone about the good deer hunting in Crawford county and the many services that are extended to the hunters. They will continue to plug for the "Roundup" until they leave after the broadcast, Friday, Nov. 22nd.

The Roundup will be staged at the Frederic gym which will handle the crowd with plenty of room. The public address system of the school will carry the fun and music to all parts of the building. Fun will be king for the evening, with hats, balloons, confetti, and other favors for the guests. At midnight a new and huge floor show will be staged which will bring laughter to everyone. Tim and the gang are arranging it especially for this dance.

Tickets are being sold by the Frederic Juniors and Seniors as well as by the Frederic and Maple Forest Sportsmen Club. The Roundup will draw every member of the Sportsmen Club, who will see to it that every hunter gets in the fun. Support has been expressed by the sportsmen of Grayling, and by the Crawford Avalanche.

NOTICE TO REGISTRANTS AND TO THE PUBLIC

Date No. 7, 1940.

Local Board No. 1, Grayling, Michigan.

The Selective Service Regulations provide:

Mailing a questionnaire (Form 40) by the local board to the registrant is notice that the process of "classification and selection" with regard to that registrant has begun. Each day this local board will post at its office a notice of the order numbers of the registrants to whom questionnaires have been mailed that day.

This local board keeps in its office a classification record (Form 100). On this classification record will be entered the date each action is taken by this board or the board of appeal concerning each registrant. The entry of this date in the classification record is notice of the action taken. Other notice will be mailed to each registrant at his address last known by the local board and to any other person who files a claim for him.

Either the mailing of a notice or the entry in the classification record of the date the notice was mailed shall constitute notice to the registrant and all concerned. This is true whether or not the mailed notice is actually received by the person to whom it is addressed.

Any person required by law to register, or any registrant, who fails to perform a duty required by the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, within the time provided by the law (generally 5 days), has violated the law. A person violating the law is subject to trial in the United States District court, which may impose a fine or imprisonment, or both.

The date when action was taken by the local board will be written in the classification record in each of the following instances:

Whenever a duty is to be performed by a registrant.

Whenever a period of time begins to run within which a registrant is to perform a duty.

Whenever a period of time begins to run within which a registrant may claim a privilege.

All registrants and other persons concerned should examine from time to time the notices posted by the local board and the classification record.

The classification record is open to inspection by the public during the board's business hours.

Charles E. Moore
Member of local board.

Industrial centers which went for Van Wagoner were Detroit, Saginaw, Pontiac, Muskegon, Monroe, Manistee, Flint, Battle Creek and Bay City. Tourist counties on the Van Wagoner list include Crawford (Grayling), Cheboygan and Presque Isle. Upper Peninsula counties went heavily for the Democratic ticket.

Non-partisan News Letter
Michigan Press Association
By GENE ALLEMAN

Lansing—The Michigan voter is getting quite a reputation for political independent thinking.

A skeptic might call it "vacillation." We think otherwise.

There are enough voters on the "fence," so to speak, to turn the tide one way or another. These persons constitute a system of checks and balance that must be reckoned with on election day.

Murray D. VanWagoner, governor-elect, carried 25 out of 88 counties and accumulated in Wayne county a commanding lead of more than 200,000 to wind up the state total with a plurality of 130,000.

Approximately one-half of these counties were in the Upper Peninsula. The others were of two classifications: Industrial and tourist.

Industrial centers which went for Van Wagoner were Detroit, Saginaw, Pontiac, Muskegon, Monroe, Manistee, Flint, Battle Creek and Bay City. Tourist counties on the Van Wagoner list include Crawford (Grayling), Cheboygan and Presque Isle. Upper Peninsula counties went heavily for the Democratic ticket.

(Nearly complete returns).

Bi-Partisan Control

Results of the Nov. 5 vote indicate that while the governor and lieutenant governor will be Democratic, the remainder of the state administration with the sole exception of state treasurer, will continue under Republican control.

The legislature will be dominated by Republicans, enough so to give the party a two-thirds majority over possible vetoes.

Harry F. Kelly, secretary of State, and Vernon J. Brown, auditor general, were favorites in the voting. Herbert Rushton, Republican nominee for attorney general, slipped through for a photo-finish margin.

The state administrative power, the so-called "executive committee" for state business, will be divided 50-50 between Democrat and Republican office-holders.

With an individual less popular and less persuasive than Mr. Van Wagoner, the split might prove nearly disastrous. It will be recalled, however, that the highway commissioner was remarkably successful in dealing with Republican legislators in past sessions.

Another result of the election is the turning of power from rural to urban forces. For a generation at least Luren D. Dickinson has been a symbol of rural Michigan. A co-incidence in this change was the sudden death of Dickinson's personal advisor, Grove Rouse, manager of the Michigan Motor Bus association, just 48 hours after Dickinson's defeat at the polls.

Willkie Victory
The Gallup poll through the Institute of Public Opinion had forecast a 51-49 victory in Michigan for Wendell L. Willkie. And the final returns vindicated the prediction to a fraction of 1 per cent.

The Willkie plurality small as it was, served only to emphasize the significance of the Van Wagoner victory which was a triumph of independent voting and not, by any stretch of the imagination, a Roosevelt "coat-tail" victory.

The democratic nominee for governor led the president by approximately 30,000 votes.

Here are some of the counties which gave a majority to Willkie and yet turned to the Van Wagoner column: Saginaw, Oakland, Monroe, Manistee, Crawford (Grayling), Cheboygan (Battle Creek) and Cheboygan in the Lower Peninsula and Iron and Keeweenaw in the Upper Peninsula.

Because of the Republicans' "anti-boss" fight at the Grand Rapids convention in September, observers have scanned the returns carefully to detect any sign of a bolt in Wayne or Kent counties, or even in Genesee county. The Roosevelt-Van Wagoner and Willkie-Dickinson votes were nearly identical in each case. There had been some rumors, prior to the election, that a "trade" was under way to sell out Dickinson for Van Wagoner in favor of Willkie. Yet the actual returns seem barren of such substantiation.

A Possible Clue
Now that the fighting is over, amateurs and professionals alike are chipping in their "30 cents' worth" of analysis as to why the voters did as they did.

Here is ours.
Plausible, at least, is the following theory which seems to fit logically the situation at hand:

The Michigan outcome, like the national outcome, is a result indirectly of the record-smashing, history-making activity of one man—Herr Hitler!

Last spring the domestic failures of the Roosevelt administration—deficits, unemployment, labor dissatisfaction—pointed to a popular reaction in November. Even immediately after the June conventions the Gallup polls showed Willkie leading by a majority of electoral votes over Roosevelt.

Something happened, to turn public opinion.

And that occurrence was not political propaganda—persuasion by words—but historic events.

"Overwhelming"
The unexpected fall of Holland, Belgium and France to the Nazi military juggernaut shocked American opinion out of its isolationist complacency.

Threatened with a possible loss of the British fleet, our only safeguard in the Atlantic ocean, Congress appropriated billions in a frantic rush to re-arm and adopted military conscription to provide man-power for the arms.

The Republican convention turned from Tom Dewey to Wendell Willkie under the belief that the needs were paramount for a "strong man." Democrats renominated President Roosevelt who immediately emphasized the foreign situation and our need for national defense, and thereupon declined to leave the capital for more than 12 hours' traveling distance.

Graphically the fall of France, an event over which we had little control, if any, changed the destiny of the United States.

Just as the destruction of the Lusitania proved to be turning points in the state of public opinion in two previous wars, the accumulation of significance of the construction of Czechoslovakia, Poland, Denmark, Norway, Holland, Belgium and France set into motion an almost irresistible trend in American public opinion.

On Sept. 1, the Institute of Propaganda Analysis, discussing America's attitude on the war, observed: "In discussions of propaganda the fact is frequently overlooked that events shape public opinion no less than words. Not only do the events serve to dramatize what the propagandist is saying, even more important, their import upon our ideals, our prejudices, our fears and our hopes is sometimes overwhelming."

Perhaps the president was right when he commented that this was a "funny campaign."

imagination, a Roosevelt "coat-tail" victory.

The democratic nominee for governor led the president by approximately 30,000 votes.

Here are some of the counties which gave a majority to Willkie and yet turned to the Van Wagoner column: Saginaw, Oakland, Monroe, Manistee, Crawford (Grayling), Cheboygan (Battle Creek) and Cheboygan in the Lower Peninsula and Iron and Keeweenaw in the Upper Peninsula.

Because of the Republicans' "anti-boss" fight at the Grand Rapids convention in September, observers have scanned the returns carefully to detect any sign of a bolt in Wayne or Kent counties, or even in Genesee county. The Roosevelt-Van Wagoner and Willkie-Dickinson votes were nearly identical in each case. There had been some rumors, prior to the election, that a "trade" was under way to sell out Dickinson for Van Wagoner in favor of Willkie. Yet the actual returns seem barren of such substantiation.

A Possible Clue
Now that the fighting is over, amateurs and professionals alike are chipping in their "30 cents' worth" of analysis as to why the voters did as they did.

Here is ours.
Plausible, at least, is the following theory which seems to fit logically the situation at hand:

Perhaps the president was right when he commented that this was a "funny campaign."

the trial of Mr. Hitler, the voters turned to President Roosevelt because he was strong in years of experience in handling national affairs.

Michigan's part in national defense is perhaps greater than any other state other than New York; defense contracts have exceeded the half billion mark and are still mounting.

The same trend favored Van Wagoner, a man in his early forties, against Governor Dickinson, 81 years old. It was the vigorous Churchill as against the older Chamberlain despite the latter's experience.

If this diagnosis be true—and we offer it humbly with no insistence that it actually is—then one man, some 4,000 miles away, months ago set into motion events which resulted finally in our choice of President Roosevelt for a third term and Murray D. Van Wagoner for governor of Michigan.

NEXT t' a one day old bride and groom ther' ain't nothin' so sickenin' t' me as a feller tryin' to tell a funny story that ain't no hand t' josh. An most of them make it worse by sayin', "Now this is th' truth." "I know a feller that seen this," or "I'll tell you what happened t' me." And then they haul off an tell some old chestnut that ever'body knows and Joe Miller would be ashamed t' have it in his book. In case you don't know "Joe Miller" his name was on th' first joke book that was ever printed. Joe Miller collected all th' material, but the book was printed after he died by his friend "Eliza Jenkins, way back in 1739. No, I don't use that book to git my jokes fer th' radio, most all th' jokes of that day were off color and can't be told in polite company. B C N you on N B C red network Wednesday nite on Plantation Party I'm goin' t' th' wagon these shoes are killin' me."

TO THE VOTERS

of the Tenth Congressional District

Final returns show that you gave me a majority of more than 20,000 in the recent election. I am deeply grateful to everyone who voted for me and thus expressed his confidence in me and the work I am doing in Washington. May I assure you all that I shall continue to represent you in a way that will merit your future confidence.

Very sincerely yours
